EASTERN DATES TO JULY 25

The Rights of Neutrals to be Respected by France

PRIVATEERING TO BE ABOLISHED

SECRET TREATY BETWEEN FRANCE AND PRUSSIA

BANKS OF ENGLAND AND FRANCE ADVANCE THE RATES OF INTEREST

THE PRUSSIANS CROSS THE LINE.

Slight Skirmishing, but no Great Battle Expected for Several Days

BY THE CABLES

PARIS, July 25—Afternoon—No battle is expected for some days.

The Journal Officiel contains the following declaration. The French government has issued an order that in the prosecution of the war commanders of the French forces shall scrupulously regard with respect to neutral powers the rules of international rights and especially conform to the principles of the Paris Congress of 1856 as follows. Privateering is abolished. A neutral flag protects enemies. Merchandise of neutrals except contraband of war is not seizable under a foreign flag. A blockade must be effectual. Although Spain and the United States did not adhere to the declaration of 1856 the French vessels will not seize property or cargoes of Spanish or American vessels provided it is not contraband of war. France will no longer claim the right to confiscate the property of Americans or of Spain if found aboard of an enemy's vessel.

LONDON, July 25.—It is anticipated that the banks of England and France will further advance the rates of interest this week. Many persons think the rate will be five per cent by Saturday.

The secret treaty which was projected between France and Prussia, monopolizes the attention here of the public press and the Parliament. There is intense indignation at the duplicity of the Powers concerned, and the action of Napoleon is considered insulting to England. Complete ignorance of the negotiation is professed by the French Embassy here. A dispatch from Brussels says the account of the treaty published in the London Times is correct, and says the Belgian government knew of its existence a short time ago.

It is expected a French fleet will attack Kiel. Seven French frigates steering east, passed Hastings to-day.

The following dispatch has just been received from Saarbrucken via Berlin. On Sunday a body of Prussians crossed the frontier and encountered the French in considerable force near Gerswailer. A sharp skirmish ensued. The French retreated leaving ten killed and wounded. Prussians suffered no loss. The needle gun was superior to the Chassepot.

A company of Prussians captured the French Custom House at Schelbigim. The officers of the Custom House made a stout resistance and all were killed or captured. One Prussian officer was wounded.

Desertions from the French army are numerous. Men are continually coming into the Prussian lines.

CARLSRUHE, July 25.—At 4 A. M. Sunday three hundred Prussians crossed the line near Saarguemine, a few miles from Metz. After encountering the scattered portions of the French chasseurs the Prussians took a position and sent flying the detachments along the line of railroad uniting Strasbourg and Stavold which tore up rails, blew up a viaduct, and did considerable other damage. The Prussians then returned to Saarbrucken.

MADRID, July 25.—The signal for a Carlist outbreak is momentarily expected, and all needful preparations are made to meet it.

HONGKONG, July 17.—The British gunboats Opossum and Dwarf have gone to Tientsin to demand satisfaction for recent outrages on foreigners. The French will send a naval and military force from Saigon. War is inevitable.

LIFE IN BAGDAD.—Among the natives life runs on the same smooth channel that it did in the time of Haroun al Raschid. The rich loaf away their time in the bath, in the harem and in the divan, everywhere smoking nargilehs and drinking coffee and solemnly chatting. And the poor, rising at daybreak at the call of the priests from the half a score of minarets, perform their ablutions, spread their little devotional carpet, say their prayers and then betake themselves to their various avocations. Laboring not very actively as it seems thus until sunset each man goes home to his pilaff or pilaf, his melons and oranges, his coffee and hubble bubble served to him by the fair hands of his brace of wives. This is the story of their lives from year to year. The Bagdadees have no amusement except such as they find in talking politics in the coffee shops or laughing at the misfortunes of their acquaintances, telling stories or with their wives or in a wedding or funeral. Every night the Pasha's band (for there is a Turkish band here) plays in front of the serail, but the Bagdadees do not care to listen to it. A company of Italian acrobats and singers have also come here and fitted up a house as a theater, but are only playing to empty benches. A newspaper published in Turkish and Arabic by the Pacha's printer, amusing as are the lies it tells of the wonderful prowess of the troops fighting against the Arabs, finds no subscribers and subsists only by official advertisements. Your Bagdadee has no [illegible] for music, no taste for the [illegible] and the [illegible] no appetite for journalistic sensations. Society here indeed has [illegible] as [illegible] society [illegible] a couple of thousand [illegible] the fossil stage of existence. It has only been thus [illegible] for a few hundred years, it is true, but it has none the less stopped growing.

THE HOME OF EVANGELINE.—An American Tourist, writing from Wolfville, N. S., July 4th, says:

This country, the land of Evangeline, made [illegible] by Longfellow, is one of the sweetest spots for summer resort on the American continent. The Basin of Minas extends [illegible] miles with old Cape Blomidon in full view, and the Bay of Fundy with its tides rising to the height of 70 feet. [illegible] breezes fill the air so that the [illegible] rise above 80 degrees. Here the Americans enervated by the heat of less favored [regions] [illegible] flee for refuge. It is now [easy] [illegible] the [illegible] line [illegible] to Halifax and thence by rail, or by the steamer from Boston to St. John, N. B., then connecting with the steamer Empress [illegible] across the Bay of Fundy to Annapolis, where [connection] [illegible] with the railway for [illegible] Wolfville, Basin of Minas, the land of Acadia, the home of Evangeline [illegible].

H. H. Fuller of Stockton [illegible] ran away [with] the [illegible] man's wife [illegible] two years for stealing the [illegible] as stealing anything [illegible] of $50 constitutes grand larceny. Her [illegible] the other man's [illegible] in a calico [illegible] shaker bonnet, [illegible] female half dressed [illegible] always [illegible] demand for her togs at least $100 [illegible] the lady is not dressed for walking down Broadway. It will be [illegible] to [illegible] the [illegible] penalty for stealing [illegible] the man's wife if the thief takes the precaution to dress her for the occasion at his own expense.

SUMMER WANDERINGS

BY A LADY [illegible]

June [illegible]—Having taken steamer at [illegible] A. M. [illegible] the [illegible] found myself at Monticello a [illegible] hours thereafter, the voyage [illegible] the Columbia [illegible] being [illegible] cool and fresh as I we had not been nearly broiled going up it one day not long before. Truly it makes a difference with us in this life the direction from which the breeze come.

Monticello seemed less changed in appearance by the devastations of the flood of '66 than could have been expected from the reports of that period. What change has taken place has been for the better, especially in the matter of hotel accommodations. The new hotel is a commodious one and I should think very well kept. All the other buildings are new also, but placed so nearly as the former ones were that very little change is apparent in size or arrangement, though the ground on which the former ones stood was entirely washed away, and the river is wider here than it used to be. I hope the confidence which the Monticello people have shown in the future good behavior of the Cowlitz river will not prove to be misplaced, but as for me I could never trust to it. To my eyes its pre-emption claim to the whole of the lower part of the valley, extending for several miles above Monticello is apparent. The loose sand [illegible] into the river at the least provocation and the valley is so narrow that there is little room to spare to further encroachments. What land there is however is so fertile that it is a temptation to the dwellers thereon to run a good deal of risk for the sake of its present productiveness.

The [importance] of the Cowlitz valley does not depend alone upon its fertility for its future importance. There are extensive coal deposits in the mountains which border the valley on the east, besides other evidences of mineral wealth which railroads and an increase of population will erelong bring to notice, and an almost inexhaustible amount of lumbering material in the forests which cover the neighboring mountains.

When the boat arrives at Monticello the passengers for Olympia find one or more stages waiting at the landing to secure their loads, and as a lively competition exists the fare has been put down ridiculously low. Not to deceive any one with false expectations of being carried to Olympia for four dollars as we were, it is proper to state here the rumor that the fare is to be raised to eight dollars and kept there for the remainder of the season. After dining comfortably our party got off at 1 P. M. Our stage was a long, light open wagon with three wide seats—pretty well loaded down with mail matter and freight before taking on the passengers. Our party of five including the driver gave the two stout horses work enough especially as the day was warm. As the wagon was without cover and I was unprovided with a sun umbrella as well as the lady who occupied the seat with me, we undertook carrying a large cotton affair whose weight added to the resistance of the slight breeze soon wearied us and we gave it up. A gentleman in the back seat volunteered to carry it and thus all three had the benefit of a partial shelter. I state these particulars for the benefit of those parties who may contemplate going to the Sound overland and warn ladies without sun umbrellas that there is no certainty of their meeting with so polite and patient a gentleman as occupied the back seat of our carriage. A warm dress with a linen duster over it, a heavy shawl for morning and evening and a sun hat and sun umbrella are requisites for comfort.

For about six miles the road follows the river bank through sand and dust of considerable depth. Then the ascent of the Cowlitz mountains begin and we have a mountain road the remainder of the day for about seventeen miles. What strikes one most in this drive is the magnificence of the timber on the mountains, and the abominable condition of the road. If it is so bad in summer what must it be in winter? is the mental inquiry continually forced upon the traveler. And yet I for one would not have missed the crossing of the mountains for a pretty sum. Such a forest as this is something to remember having seen and fills our conceptions of solemn and stupendous grandeur. Fir and cedar are the principal trees. They stand thickly upon the ground and as straight as Indian columns, so high that it is an effort to look to the top of them, and so large that their diameter corresponds admirably to their height. If there is anything in nature for which I have an affection resembling love to human creatures it is for a fine tree. The god Pan and the old Druidical religion are intelligible to me as expressions of the human soul struggling through nature up to nature's God—and as a religion free from arrogance and the temptation to build upon itself worldly ambitions it will bear recommendation even in the nineteenth century. Being a lover of the woods I could not but enjoy this splendid forest, both in an æsthetical and religious point of view.

Our traveling party proved a pleasant one. The fine weather, route, mountain air and delight at the scenery made us a merry one. We felt like mischievous children and longed for an adventure. No bears, cougars or road agents appearing to satisfy our craving, we were forced to be content with the prospect of breaking down which began to present itself when about seven miles from our sleeping station. Walking over bad corduroys of road, mending the wagon, and looking the wheels with rope amused and belated us, together so that it was nearly eight o'clock when we crossed the Aliquot creek and climbing a sharp ascent found ourselves at Humphrey's where we were to sup and sleep.

Pumphrey's Landing, the place is commonly called, because it is at this point that canoe navigation begins or ends for those who wish to avoid crossing the mountain by stage. Until quite recently, or during the high water, the little steamer Rescue carried passengers to this point—a great saving of fatigue and exposure in bad weather. At Pumphrey's we found a good supper and comfortable beds. But getting up at half past two in the morning to start proved a trial to the merry mountaineers of the previous afternoon who had not been particular to save their strength, and could not have saved it if they had been particular. A cup of coffee bargained for the night before [illegible] us as well as might be for an ante-breakfast ride of fourteen miles. But I did not like the coffee, it made me sick, and right here for the benefit of those who do not know how to make good coffee let me give a receipt for preparing that delicious beverage in the proper manner. First roast the grains yourself and grind it properly—neither too coarsely nor too finely, make it into a paste with a little white of egg and water, then put it into the pot and pour on hot water until the pot contains as much as is wanted. Then let it stand where it will steep, not boil. It may steep from ten to twenty minutes according to quantity, keeping just below the boiling point. When it begins to boil up, set it off immediately and stir it with a long spoon to dislodge any grounds from the sides of the pot, let it stand and settle from three to five minutes. If ever I could hope to have a cup of such coffee in traveling I think I could endure any amount of fatigue with that in anticipation, especially if I knew there would be sweet bread to go with it.

The road from Humphrey's to McDonald's [illegible] over what is called Humphrey's mountains was in every respect like that we came over the previous afternoon, the same grandeur of forest, luxuriance of undergrowth, and the same rough [illegible]. Rabbits and [illegible] and grouse were frequently seen in the road, [illegible] cared about as much for us as [illegible] the [illegible] McDonald's is just on the edge of the first prairie we come to [illegible] a comfortable house [illegible] northward [illegible] take the remainder meal. A good fire blazing in the open fireplace [illegible] seemed to our benumbed [illegible] party.

After the brief rest [illegible] we set out again in quite a cheerful frame of mind, yet [illegible] the preceding day. The road across the McDonald's prairie is excellent though [illegible] and here we caught the first glimpse of Mount Rainier [illegible] in shape like the [illegible] with its gable ends toward [illegible]. But half obscured in mist. It was later in the day before it was revealed to us in all its grandeur and beauty. After a mile or two [illegible] prairie we entered the woods again and after nine miles of slow travel, arrived at the [illegible] [crossing] of the Chehalis. On the northern side of this river stands the pretty little village of Claquato which boasts, if we may believe a sign [illegible] an academy of that euphonious name also. There were comfortable looking houses and fruit orchards here which made a most favorable impression on our minds, suggesting numerous quotations from the poets who by the way are not very reliable as real estate agents.

Another forest road beyond Claquato proved about as rough as the mountains. A few miles brought us to the second crossing of the Chehalis at the junction of the Skookum Chuck, a very pretty spot. Ford's prairie is divided from Grand Mound prairie by a strip of forest, and in fact the whole remainder of the drive to Olympia is alternately forest and prairie, the last fifteen miles of road being like a gravel drive in a gentleman's park. From Ford's prairie we had a good view of Mt. St. Helens and from Grand Mound prairie [illegible] views of Rainier—the grandest snow peak of the Cascade range. It hurts my patriotic [Or]egonian pride to say so, but Rainier is the chief of the snow peaks and the one altogether lovely. Its shape is such that it seems to have three summits—yet it is easy to imagine that its height was once much greater than at present, and that the three peaks are the irregularities upon the edge of one enormous crater. The lights and shades of its present form and aspect are beautiful above criticism.

The entrance into Olympia is through a belt of magnificent trees four or five miles wide. Just at the head of the Sound where the Des Chutes falls into the Sound waters is a mill and a little lumbering village called Tumwater. A flouring mill and tannery complete the manufacturing establishments of Tumwater. The falls of the Des Chutes are very pretty, but their beauty will completely be hidden by all manner of mills which will be made to avail themselves of this fine water power. Passing through Tumwater, which is really a suburb of Olympia, we soon find ourselves in the streets of this classically denominated capital.

Olympia depends upon its location for its claim to beauty. Like all towns cut out of the forest it is rough in its primitive aspect and has to contend with stumps, fallen timber and burnt trees unfallen. Still it is a cheerful looking place with pleasant houses, good sidewalks and the longest and most delightful bridges! In time it must become a second Venice. The habits of its people are eminently social and the tone of its society good. Its business is not of the noisy and bustling kind of the lumbering towns. There are large and commodious wharves but as yet but little commerce. The amount of agricultural land about the Sound is small, and it can never be an agricultural country, neither did I see much stock, though I heard of heavy shipments of wool. The truth is that the western half of Washington Territory depends on a commerce growing out of its mineral wealth and lumbering facilities. The Northern Pacific Road will bring to the Sound the products of farming countries to the east but they will not be produced west of the Cascade mountains.

What interests me most in Olympia is the historical library of Hon. Elwood Evans to whom the future State of Washington is going to be immeasurably indebted for a collection of books already very rare and every year becoming more rare. Mr. Evans has taken pains to collect every volume by every author relating to the Pacific coast. Those which could not be obtained in the United States have been procured by orders sent to London. All the matter printed in newspapers referring to the early history of Oregon and Washington has been carefully preserved and as carefully arranged for reference. I do not know of any one in Oregon who has anything like so extensive a collection of such matter and I would suggest here that the Portland Library Association is the proper party to commence and prosecute the work of collecting similar material for Oregon. By advertising no doubt a great many valuable books and papers might be obtained for preservation which are now lying in dusty corners of old pioneer houses and which will be destroyed as waste paper by the rising generation if not secured in the lifetime of the present one.

Manufacturing in the South has begun to yield a satisfactory return for capital used and labor employed. According to the last annual statement of the Augusta (Georgia) Cotton Manufactory, one of the oldest and largest establishments in the South, the gross earnings of that mill for the year ending June 11, 1870 were $175,380; the expenses were $26,[illegible] repairs $6,886, taxes and water rent paid $14,[illegible], leaving the net earnings $127,-771. Out of this net earnings there have been paid during the year four dividends of 5 per cent each amounting to 120,000 and the balance $7,779 has been added to the profit and loss account making that account equal to $233,2[illegible]. The capital stock is $600,000 [illegible] a [illegible] real estate absorb of this $4[illegible] leaving $171,9[illegible]0 as commercial capital. The last dividend declared in April last was the forty fourth of the company. The factory consumed during the year 2,907,-[illegible] pounds of cotton at an average cost of twenty four cents a pound and manufactured 8,3[illegible],131 yards of cloth. It employs four hundred and eighty nine hands, to whom have been paid $159,[illegible]76, an average of three hundred and twenty seven dollars each. This is encouraging news from the South. It shows that capital is sure of being compensated in that section and that manufacturers can make money in Georgia as well as in the Northern States. In a short time the industry of the South will run in many channels and thus all the people be benefited.

An order has been received at Chatham, England, from the Admiralty directing the building at that dockyard of another new and powerful iron vessel to be named the Raleigh which is to be at once commenced in the first building dock which becomes vacant. The Raleigh is to be upwards of 4,000 tons burden with machinery of 1,000 horse power and will be cased with wood.

WEDNESDAY [illegible] JULY [illegible]

Judge Boise's Second Letter

At [illegible] result [illegible] two [illegible] Judge Boise [illegible] The [illegible] quarters the Radical [illegible] heretofore [illegible] parties that he was [illegible] views so-called and that he was opposed to the so called radical [illegible] of the Republican party But [illegible] second letter he emphatically denies this [illegible] announces in substance that he [illegible] in the ranks of Radical [illegible] We are gratified [illegible] understood If we were in error on the subject many others in both parties were in error also

When we first mentioned this matter we had not the smallest idea that we were misstating in the least particular the Judge's position Nor were we actuated by any desire to drive him out of the party as one paper has intimated We were simply protesting against the course taken by the Polk county Republican and mentioned his name in connection therewith But Judge Boise has disclaimed all sympathy with the political utterances of that paper That we are somewhat surprised at this we do not deny and we doubt not the Republican will also be surprised at it inasmuch as that paper has talked as if it supposed its utterances had the Judge's approval Its [illegible] of the 16th inst. quite plainly indicates such a supposition

It affords us satisfaction that the Judge has been so prompt in correcting our statements in regard to his position and in affirming Radical Republican doctrines But we are forced to remember that early in 1866 when the Statesman came out vehemently for President Johnson and against Congress that paper quoted Judge Boise as one among the influential men who were supporting the President and approving his course and the Judge did not write any letter of denial Had he been as prompt to set himself right at that time as, we are glad to say he has been on this occasion an impression regarding his position that has unfortunately been very prevalent for several years, would have received a check at the beginning

To show that we were not alone in receiving this impression we may cite the Corvallis Gazette. That paper reproves us for making mention of this matter, which reproof we accept in a friendly spirit Under the mistaken notion that we were attacking Judge Boise it comes to his defense and begs us to desist But in doing this the Gazette has itself misstated his position It says "Many with Judge Boise, have not been attached to the Congressional theories of suffrage but they have acquiesced in the decisions of the majority" Now the Judge himself says that he has been attached to the Congressional theories of suffrage We trust that the Gazette will make this correction or that the Judge will write a letter to that paper for the purpose of making it

We trust also that the Democratic papers will now cease to pursue a course with reference to Judge Boise which they must perceive does him great injustice All along they have spoken of him as being opposed on principle to the measures of the Republican party and has censured him for adhering to the party while disapproving its measures and principles The late Salem Press was quite abusive of the Judge on this alleged ground Only yesterday the Herald spoke of him as being "disposed to look with disfavor on the doctrine of negro suffrage and followed the statement with the customary censure of those who "think that negro suffrage is wrong and yet are now acting with the Republican party A sense of justice should lead the editor of that paper to read the Judge's second letter, published in the OREGONIAN and correct the erroneous statements it has made regarding him

We could go into the subject at length and give names and incidents to show still further how we came by the impression regarding the Judge's political action which he has taken the trouble to correct But that appears to be unnecessary His second letter is so explicit a statement of his views and position and commits him so strongly to what some call 'Radicalism that there would seem to be no need for us to continue the subject

Votes and Population in New York City

The census of a considerable part of the city of New York has been finished and the result in many districts as compared with the votes thrown in them is quite astonishing The New York Times of the 13th inst presents a long list from which we take at random the following

Ninth Ward, Fourth District J Webb, enumerator—population 3 200 vote 3 458

Seventh Ward, Third District P V Halley enumerator—population 7 472 vote 5 859

First Ward, Fifth District W Stukely enumerator—population 1 378 vote 3 014

First Ward Sixth District W Stukely enumerator—population 95 vote 3 013

Seventeenth Ward, First District P A Roberts enumerator—population, 3 [illegible]1 vote 5 160

We might continue at much greater length the list given by the Times but the above will do for a sufficiently striking contrast between population and voters It shows at a glance where Tammany's annual majority of seventy thousand in the city of New York comes from, and indicates how it is made up They could make it two hundred and fifty thousand if such a number were necessary to overcome the Republican vote in the interior of the State A comparison of the number returned by the census takers with the count of votes in elections, is really a startling picture Could the country survive under the domination of the party which thus piles Pelion on Ossa in building up its mountain of frauds

A Blast from Polk

Mr P C Sullivan in an article of two columns in the Dallas Republican relieves his mind on the subject of negro suffrage and the measures of the Republican party in general This article is addressed to the OREGONIAN and is notable mainly for its incoherence and acerbity We [illegible] not [illegible] it [illegible] forth [illegible] quote [illegible] paragraph [illegible] reader will [illegible] article [illegible]

Mr editor I am opposed to universal suffrage as I always have been and as you once was and so is a large majority of the Republican party do you continue Mr editor I have not changed my principles since four years ago when a man in favor of negro suffrage could not be elected to the Senate from Oregon nor can such a man be in September next Do you sabe John"

Had we the least malice to exhibit toward Mr Sullivan we probably should quote liberally from the article in which such writing as this abounds but as we are most kindly disposed toward him we forbear

CHEYENNE July 26 —Information from South Pass says the soldiers who were sent by Government after the Big Horn expedition, overtook them but were unable to bring them back The soldiers returned The expedition has proceeded to the Big Horn country

From Montana.

HELENA, Mon, July 26 —Robt Coburn, of Cooper's Ranch, who started eight days ago in search of stolen cattle, has not yet returned It is feared that the Indians have murdered him A half breed Indian named John Pemberton was shot and killed by a colored barber named F Lewellyn, at Bannock City Troubles over a game of cards Lewellyn was arrested and discharged on showing that the act was in self defence The telegraph line to Deer Lodge, Montana is completed

BY THE CABLES.

NEW YORK, July 26 —The Tribune's London special dispatch dated one o'clock this afternoon says that the English feeling is profoundly moved by the publication this afternoon in the Times of the proposed treaty between France and Prussia The grave urgency with which Disraeli in the House this afternoon questioned the Government justly reflected emotion Conversation among the members turned on no other topic Gladstone's reply while declining absolutely to commit the government to any opinion or declaration whatever betrayed in a manner more than words, an unmistakable apprehension that the document might prove authentic His answer was given with a pale face and hesitating lips When he sat down the House felt that England's relation with the Continental trouble had grown close if not alarming To the mention of Belgium, the House responded with an unwonted thrill of sympathy and a clear recognition of England's obligation to protect her It is understood that immediate communications were made by the Government to its agents at Berlin and Paris and the French government will have instant opportunity to admit or deny its responsibility for the alleged treaty It is believed here that if genuine its proposals are French while its rejection is due to Prussia The copy of the Times is thought to have been supplied from Berlin It is certain that the Times would not have published it unless its authenticity was deemed conclusive

PARIS July 26 —French gunboats to operate on the Rhine and rivers of Prussia are being transported from Marseilles in sections overland

LONDON July 26 —Several French cruisers were reported off Wick Scotland to day

News received by way of Berlin is very meagre on account of the close watch of the Prussian Government over the telegraph Frankfort on the Main has been designated as the Prussian headquarters

There is great activity in all the English dock yards

A writer in the Times thinks that Napoleon will try to force his way into the old kingdom of Hanover

Copious showers last night greatly benefitted the crops

Nearly all the journals have editorial remarks this afternoon on the treaty All are similar in tone "France must explain this offensive treaty" are the words of the Times and the burden of the London press The Times particularly is seeking to make this a pretext for the intervention of England in favor of Prussia The attitude of Ireland is also commented upon After giving data of many meetings recently held in Ireland and strong resolutions of sympathy for France adopted the Times asserts that the sympathy is altogether due to Catholicism and the consequent hatred of the man Protestantism

DOVER July 26 —French frigates passed the port late yesterday afternoon

PARIS July 26 —The Journal Official this afternoon says that Marshal Le Bœuf late last night telegraphed to the Emperor that General Bernish had repelled the reconnoissance of the enemy near the town of Nelderfrun 25 miles northeast of Strasburg One officer was killed and two prisoners were taken [illegible] says the officer killed was an Englishman

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JULY 27, 1870.

CITY.

THE FRANKLIN SHOOTING CASE.—The parties arrested on Saturday for the shooting of Wm. Franklin, had an examination before the Recorder yesterday. The evidence showed that Taylor and the Johnsons were looking for Shultz; that they were led to believe from certain information that Shultz was in the city that night, and hid in or near the block where the shooting occurred; that Franklin came out of a house on his way to the sidewalk, that upon his approach the defendants or one of them called out to him to halt, thinking him to be Shultz or that he was to halt; that Franklin started to run, [illegible] him; that one or more of the party immediately and that there were four shots fired, the fourth being the one which took effect. Franklin fell and one of the Johnsons came up, saw that it was the wrong man and went back to the others. The testimony of Mr. Douglas, who was on the same side of the street, and at first in advance of Franklin, was that when he heard the word halt he turned and that when immediately there came the flash and the report of a pistol, and the other three shots followed in quick succession. This was about the substance of the testimony of all the witnesses as to the shooting. The Recorder, after the closing of the evidence on the part of the prosecution, on motion of Mr. Mitchell for the defence, discharged the defendants, upon the ground that as they were engaged in a lawful act—an attempt to arrest Shultz—and as there was no malicious intent shown, the mistake as to [illegible] charged or shown, the mistake as to the shooting of Franklin did not constitute a crime under our statute.

THE MOST REMARKABLE MAN OF THE PERIOD.—The most remarkable man of the period is the man who has not seen Shultz, the robber and desperado. We met such a man yesterday. He was born in Kentucky, about 1816. His father was not a man; his mother was, and according to the most reliable accounts we can get, a very sensible woman, and a disbeliever in spooks and hobgoblins. Uncle Johnny—our most remarkable man—lives several miles out in the country. He says Shultz can get into his house without committing any burglary, by simply pulling the latch-string. He is not anxious that Shultz should visit him, with belt stuck full of pistols and bowie-knives, and breathing sulphurous smoke from his nostrils and all that. He hasn't any time in looking for Shultz, and has no expectations that he shall cultivate any [illegible] relations with him, should he chance make his acquaintance. Uncle Johnny thinks he might meet Shultz and never know it unless some mutual friend should be at hand to do the honors of an introduction. Strangely enough Uncle Johnny is not at all certain that Shultz will come his way, and expresses a belief that as he is getting well along in years, he may possibly die without having ever once met face to face with that doughty and ubiquitous individual. Altogether, Uncle Johnny's ideas in regard to Shultz are unique and singular; perhaps we never should have mentioned 'em.

DR. SAWTELLE'S LECTURE.—Many persons lost a great treat in not attending the lecture of this gentleman last evening. He speaks of Europe from actual experience, having resided there for some years. He very pleasantly described the annoyances in the way of examining passports, baggage, etc., attendant American travelers in Europe. He advised all those contemplating a visit to Europe to master enough of the language to do their talking, and to acquire the pronunciation from French people and not from the books, as by the use of this method travelers have no difficulty in any part of the country. The most interesting part of the lecture related to the present war between France and Prussia. Dr. Sawtelle having had personal knowledge of the present Napoleon, and of several members of the great Bonaparte's family, gave it as his opinion that Napoleon the Third is the ablest of the Bonaparte family. But he gave him credit for great cunning and political ability. He says the Emperor has impoverished France to beautify Paris, and thinks he has gone into this war only to vindicate his claim to the fame of the first Napoleon, but also to regain the territory between France and the Rhine, and make Prussia pay the cost of the war and help him out of debt. The lecturer avowed his hearty sympathy with Prussia in this contest, which sentiment was applauded by the audience.

FIRING.—About half past one o'clock yesterday morning, four shots as if from a pistol, were fired in the street in the neighborhood of Eighteenth and Taylor. Many of the inhabitants in the neighborhood were awakened, and among some of them there was considerable alarm. Everybody is just now in exactly the right state of nerves for alarms. A few moments after the firing, a man hurriedly entered the house of Mr. Alexander Hamilton, who lives on Ninth, and walked about for some time in greatly excited, rather than with intent to steal. He was distinctly heard by Mr. Hamilton, who was in bed up stairs, but who did not venture to go down. After a little, the man went out and went away. Mr. Hamilton, we understand, saw the man approach the house, and describes him as a man of medium height, wearing a large brimmed hat. His actions led Mr. H. to believe that he was trying to get away from pursuers. It has not been ascertained so far as we can learn, who did the shooting; but the most reasonable theory is that some of the thieves of the city had entrapped some greeney out in that neighborhood and then turned him loose, firing the shots to frighten him and hasten his pace.

THE NEW THEATER—MISS ANNIE PIXLEY'S BENEFIT.—Miss Annie Pixley had a full house at her benefit last evening. This fact coupled with the generous plaudits she received during the evening constitutes the most flattering testimonial given in this city to so young an actress. Miss Annie acquitted herself throughout the evening with more than her usual pleasing cleverness. In her parts of the evening she was encored upon almost every appearance. We were more than pleased to see this evidence of the young lady's studious efforts to please and please the public. Of the company we need only say that, as the public already know, Messrs. Vinson, Melville and Ellerton are as entertaining only can be, while Miss [illegible] gave a pleasing exhibition of her versatility. This was the more marked in the Day after the Fair in which she personated several quite dissimilar characters. The sisters have most successfully established themselves as favorites with our theater going public.

PLAZA CONCERT.—Programme for Wednesday evening, July 27th:

1. The Recruit's Farewell.
2. Polka.
3. Aria from Il Pirata.—Bellini.
4. Palermo Quadrille.
5. Spanish Bolero.
6. Doppler Schnapsen March.
7. Song—You don't know how we miss you.
8. Ladies Gallop.

THROWN FROM A HORSE AND BADLY HURT.—Last evening Charles Lawrence was riding a horse rather rapidly along Stark street, when the horse stumbled upon a cistern cover and fell. Lawrence was thrown violently upon the ground, the horse falling upon and rolling over him. The extent of the injury was not known precisely when we left the place, but the man was very seriously hurt.

TERRIBLE PISTOLLING OF A HOUSE.—It is reported that a house on Robinson's Hill was bombarded during the absence of the family, on Sunday. No less than twenty-five bullet holes were found in the side of the house when the family returned from a visit to the city. The house had been entered, but nothing was missed. Of course it was Shultz, (?) who, finding nothing to eat, and nobody to slay and eat, wreaked his vengeance upon the unoffending house.

DOMESTIC TROUBLE.—Yesterday, just as the Recorder's court was about to begin its afternoon session, a woman, residing on Second street, applied for the purpose of taking proceedings to recover her daughter, a young lady well known as "Nettie"—who, it appears had taken leave of home without a permit from her parent. We heard it stated, but cannot say how truly, that the girl had gone away with a lawyer.

SHULTZ AND THE CENSUS-TAKER.—The assistant marshal went out yesterday to take Shultz's census. He found, however, that the robber had deserted all his late residences on the mountain. According to accounts from Milwaukie, Shultz was there Monday night, two or three houses having been gone through, in the usual way.

RAILROAD MATERIAL.—We noticed on the dock yesterday, and in course of delivery from the steamer Idaho, a considerable amount of railroad material for the Oregon and California R. R. Co. There were over thirty pairs of car wheels, and it was stated that there were about seventy tons of other material.

THE CORRESPONDENCE OF A SCOUNDREL.—A day or two since one of our best citizens received a "confidential" letter from a scoundrel in New York, who signs himself "Rufus Stockton" proposing to furnish any amount or denomination of counterfeit Treasury notes for about one eighth of their face in genuine notes. The letter begins, "My dear Sir—You have been recommended to me as the right man to introduce the goods named on accompanying sheet." The accompanying sheet is a printed one and opens as follows:

> "There is a tide in the affairs of men which,
> Taken at its flood, leads on to fortune."
> SHAKESPEARE.

"Be careful that you read this in private! See that not a soul is watching you! I am about to make you my confidante, and to place you in possession of a very great and valuable secret.

"Now it will remain to be seen whether this confidence is misplaced. I firmly believe that you are my man. I have no doubt that you want to make money, but whether you will employ the means I am about to offer you, remains to be seen. Thousands of men get rich, do they not? Do you, or does any one know how they become so? You answer, No! I say, "go thou and do likewise." Of course you are aware that the greater part of the money now in circulation is not genuine, but counterfeit. Every one bill in three that comes into your premises, I make bold to say, is counterfeit, and you have passed it off again as good money.

"To come to the point, I have a quantity of FAC-SIMILES OF GREENBACKS OR TREASURY NOTES, of as fine quality as are in circulation, which I can supply you on easy terms. Commissioners have pronounced them an artistic and unparalleled piece of workmanship, and even brokers have failed to detect any imperfection or deficiency, but on the contrary, have considered them fac similes of the original; and I will agree to forfeit a thousand dollars for every one that can in any way get you into trouble."

Very naturally our friend was surprised that he had been "recommended" in such manner as to make this counterfeiting scoundrel feel so sure of his man; and it is needless to say that he was intensely indignant. Who could have so slandered him? Now, if our friend had understood the way in which his name had got into the possession of Rufus Stockton, he would never have suffered a moment's uneasiness. He had never been recommended by anybody. The scoundrel Stockton had procured a directory of Portland, as he had done in the case of every other city in the United States. Taking this directory, he had fallen upon the name of our friend by the merest chance and addressed him the letter and circular. A dozen others in this city have received similar correspondence from the same man, each one being assured that he is the only one selected to act as agent in this city, and that the writer is confident that "you are my man." Out of a dozen or so he expects to find one gudgeon or more who will bite at his counterfeit bait. It can hardly be necessary to warn everybody that if they send Stockton money, they will lose it, as the scoundrel will not be heard from again. His next correspondence will be over another name and will be another bait to catch money from another foolish rogue.

CIRCUS AND MENAGERIE.—The Great Overland Circus and Menagerie of Performing Animals, the largest and most complete establishment of the kind which has ever yet appeared upon this coast, is now traveling toward Portland and will exhibit here on or about August 27th. Mr. J. R. Lake, of this city, is with the company, and he advises us somewhat of the character of the performances, which are said to surpass anything of the kind ever arranged for similar exhibitions. Crocker's den of performing lions accompany the circus, and the equestrian, gymnastic and acrobatic troupe comprises artists from all quarters of the globe, who are unequaled in their special roles, among which are the Mohamed troupe of Bedouin Arabs; Jule Kent, late assistant to the great king of Jesters, Dan Rice; the champion bare back riders, Mlle. Franki, Mlle. Victorini; the Peruvian Brothers, the boy wonder and somersault rider, Master Gonzales, the champion three-horse rider, Mons. Gillani; the wonderful horse Argyle, and many others, making the greatest equestrian establishment ever exhibited on this coast. Mr. Kingsley will also appear at each performance with his beautiful stud of performing horses—eight in all—with which he challenges the world. A rare treat is in store for the people of Oregon, upon the arrival here of this Great Overland Circus.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT—DEADY, JUDGE.—Tuesday, July 26th:

In the matter of A. H. Kallenberg, in bankruptcy; opinion of Regeister affirmed.

Court adjourned to Monday next.

SUDDEN DEATH.—A middle aged man named George Heintzleman residing at East Portland, fell dead yesterday afternoon. An inquest was held, and the jury rendered a verdict of death by congestion of the brain. The deceased had no family.

REAL ESTATE SALE.—At 10 o'clock this morning, Mr. A. B. Richardson will offer for sale at auction some valuable homestead property. For particulars, read his advertisement or call at his auction rooms at the hour abovementioned.

THE WASP.—This little steamer is at the foot of Washington street undergoing some repairs and alterations. It is expected she will be ready for regular service about the first of next week.

UNDERWRITER'S AGENCY.—An agency of the San Francisco Board of Underwriters has been established in this city, Mr. Rhodes, of the firm of Janion & Rhodes, agent.

AN ADJOURNED MEETING.—An adjourned meeting of the Retail Dealers Protective Union will be held to night at their hall on First Street, and a full attendance is desired.

PORTLAND LIBRARY.—A new book entitled "Tributes to Abraham Lincoln," donated by Hon. J. S. Smith, was received yesterday, at the Portland Library.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS.—Consult our advertising columns for several advertisements of proposals for bids to do street work.

PACIFIC UNIVERSITY.—The college year of the Pacific University, Forest Grove, will begin August 3d.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Mr. Vallandigham denies his intention to run for Congress against General Schenck. The Democrats will probably nominate some more popular man.

Information from Mr. Whittemore's district in South Carolina, is to the effect that he is making arrangements to take the field as a candidate for election, next fall, to the Forty-Second Congress. There is strong opposition to it.

The third party movement in Pittsburg, called the Republican Reform movement, has resulted in a most signal failure. The movement has been virtually abandoned. The regular Republican ticket will soon be put in the field.

OUR CITIZENS certainly deserve credit, for the energy they display to make the Oregon Immigration and Labor Exchange a success and benefit to the State, as well as the immigrant coming to our State. Every citizen should give all the aid in their power to help the large number of strangers coming to our State, and not forget to inform them that Kohn & Fishel, No. 91 Front street, have the largest stock of clothing in Oregon, other goods are of superior quality and sold at extreme low prices.

EUREKA! EUREKA!! EUREKA!!! What Nature's sovereign remedy for healing the sick. Dr. Pierce's Alt. Ext. or Golden Medical Discovery combines in harmony more of Nature's most valuable medical properties than was ever before combined in one medicine. For the cure of all coughs, whether acute or lingering, it has proven its superiority over everything else. For "Torpid Liver," or "Biliousness," and for Constipation of the bowels, it is a never-failing remedy. As a Blood Purifier for the cure of Pimples, Blotches, Eruptions and all humors it is unequaled. Sold by druggists.

FOREIGN NOTES.

Professor Wise, the aeronaut, regards the clew to practical aerial transit as lying, not in improvements for the balloon, but in actual flight by means of wings, which can in time be made as large in proportion to the weight of the human body, and worked as powerfully and surely as those of many insects and birds. New experiments to this end are developed at each annual meeting of the British Aeronautic Society, now operating under the presidency of the Duke of Argyle, and to whose objects he is devoting his fortune.

A new story of hotel charges: A visitor passed two days at a famous hotel at Chantilly and then called for his bill. At sight of the sum charged he was furious. "A hundred and ten francs for two days!" he exclaimed, "a hundred and ten francs for two or three bad dinners and two wretched nights passed in a bed full of bugs!" "How? Were there bedbugs?" said the hotel keeper in delight, "and I was going to forget them. Give me the bill." The traveller handed back the bill to the landlord, who added "Bedbugs, 2f."

The Cork, Ireland, journals publish in full articles of the London Times and News upon the Cork trades riots. The Irish Times also comments upon those unfortunate occurrences. It warns the traders that they "will find it as useless to rebel against machinery as the hand loom weavers of Lancashire and the agricultural laborers of Essex and Norfolk found it to resist the introduction of power looms and threshing machines, and anticipates that the probable result of the movement will be to leave the employers unable to compete with English and Scotch rivals."

A war involving Russia would, it appears, find that power well prepared. In a report presented a few weeks ago to the Czar, by the Minister of War, it was stated that the army was now in possession of 266,491 new and converted breech-loading rifles. It was also announced that up to the end of May, the new cartridge factory at St. Petersburg had made 15,500,000 cartridges, and that it was now capable of producing 500,000 per day. It is clear that we are not likely to have another great war in which the Chassepot or the needle-gun will be found opposed to the old muzzle-loading rifle.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The steamer Pelican, on her last trip down from Victoria to San Francisco, carried a cargo worth $40,000,—the most valuable one which has been shipped from that port for some time.

The Government offers a reward of $500 for such information as will lead to the apprehension and conviction of any person or persons concerned in the murder of Robert Clarke, Mayne Island, Plumper Pass.

Mr. William Fawcette [appropriate name] desires it to be known that he is prepared to submit a scheme either to the city or colonial government for the introduction into Victoria of a steady supply of good, pure spring water, at the rate of 90,000 gallons per diem, the cost of the whole undertaking not to exceed $17,000.

The depression of real estate in Victoria and Esquimalt may be appreciated from the following list of sales on the 7th inst., of what was once considered desirable property: A two story house on the corner of Government and Herald streets, with lot, sold for $175; the Navy Inn and lots 25 and 26 at Esquimalt, for $200; lots 23 and 24 adjoining above, $43 each; corner lot, No. 1, corner First and Washington street, adjoining lot No. 2, at $90 each.

The Victoria Standard says of the new Constitution: The common sentiment heard everywhere since we published the summary of the terms of Confederation, negotiated by our Delegates at Ottawa, is one of profound disgust that no mention is made—no condition put in the terms guaranteeing Responsible Government to the people of British Columbia. Warm and long tried friends of Confederation declare that they would not cross the street for such terms, without self government is guaranteed.

The Living Machine.

Injure the main spring of a watch, and every portion of the works become disordered. The human stomach is to the human system what that elastic piece of metal is to a chronometer. It influences the action of the other organs and controls, to a certain extent, the whole living machine. The comparison may be carried further, for as the weakness or other imperfection of the main spring is indicated on the face of the time-piece, so also is the weakness or other disorder of the stomach betrayed by the face of the invalid. The complexion is sallow or faded, the eyes are deficient in luster and intelligence, and there is a worn, anxious expression in the whole countenance which tell as plainly as written words could do, that the great nourishing organ whose office it is to minister to the wants of the body, and to sustain and renew all its parts, is not performing its duty. It requires renovating and regulating, and to accomplish this end Hostetter's Stomach Bitters may be truly said to be the one thing needful. The broken main spring of a watch may be replaced by a new one, but the stomach can only be repaired and strengthened, and this is one of the objects of the famous vegetable restorative which for eighteen years has been waging a successful contest with dyspepsia in all climates. As a specific for indigestion it stands alone. When the resources of the pharmacopoeia have been exhausted, without, at best, doing more than mitigating the complaint, a course of this wholesome and palatable, yet powerful, stomachic effects a perfect and permanent cure. In all cases of dyspepsia the liver is more or less disordered, and upon this important gland, as well as upon the stomach and bowels, the Bitters act with singular distinctness, regulating and reinvigorating every secretive and assimilating organ on which bodily and mental health depend.

STEAM POWER, NOS. 625 AND 627 FRONT ST.

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.
The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.
BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.
Each package bears the signature of G. VENARD.

Farm for Sale.

320 ACRES OF LAND, IN JACKSON COUNty, for sale or exchange for city property. It is in the suburbs of Gasburg. Gasburg, like the beaver, is all "terminus." The branch of the Central Pacific Railroad will intersect the Oregon and California road at Gasburg. The Oregon Central will run through it, as does the stage road now, and many a railroad as yet unthought of, will find its "terminus" in Gasburg. The warm and dry winters, the mild Italian summers, the gushing spring water at short intervals, the lofty peaks of the Cascades on the east, the Coast Range on the west, the broad and fertile valleys on the north and south, and last but not least, the inexhaustible forests in every direction, make it naturally one of the finest "terminuses" in the world. [illegible] is attached in to the "other end" of any railroad. Also a one third interest in a water-ditch and forty acres of mining lands, which have been worked for nine years and never failed to pay a dividend.
Strawberries 5 cts. per quart, and ONE MULE at 20 cts per pound, and groceries in proportion.

Decision in U S Circuit Court

[illegible]

U S Circuit Court for the District of [illegible] Tuesday July 26 [illegible]

[illegible] Kamm et al [illegible] suit for partition

This suit was [illegible] From the [illegible] made [illegible]

I That the plaintiff [illegible] Emma Lamb his wife [illegible] citizens of the state of Kentucky, and that the defendants [illegible] Kamm, Mary [illegible] Cooper and Millard O [illegible] are citizens of the State of Oregon.

II That on May [illegible] 18[illegible] Daniel H Lownsdale died intestate in the city of Portland, Oregon, seized in fee simple of the west halves of lots 5 and 6 in block 33 in said city of Portland, leaving as his only heirs at law the aforesaid defendants except Kamm, and the aforesaid Emma and [illegible] the said [illegible] and Ida being the children of Sarah M Squires a deceased daughter of said Daniel H and the other of said heirs being his children, and that the heirs aforesaid are now seized in fee simple of the premises aforesaid as tenants in common, the said [illegible] Ida being so seized of one tenth of said premises and the other four heirs of one fifth each thereof, and the plaintiffs interests in the premises are of the value of more than $2 000

III That the defendant Kamm claims some interest in the premises and pretends to derive some right thereto from Daniel H by virtue of a deed executed by said Daniel H together with Stephen Coffin and W W Chapman to said Chapman on August 9 1850 and a subsequent deed from said Chapman to Simon B Marye and a deed from said Marye to said Kamm and that by the deed of August 9 1850 aforesaid the grantors therein on consideration of the sum of $11 000 among other lots or parcels of land did bargain, sell and quit claim to said Chapman his heirs and assigns forever all their right title interest, estate claim property and demand whatsoever both at law and in equity as well in possession as expectancy to all that piece parcel or lot of land lying and situate in Portland, Washington county to-wit Lots numbered 5 and 6 in block 33 with all and singular the hereditaments etc, free from all incumbrances caused or permitted by them, their heirs, etc,—and free from the claim right or title of all and every person or persons claiming by through or under them, their heirs, etc but not further or otherwise

IV That at the date of the execution of the deed of August 9 1850, the premises belonged to the United States and were a part of the public land thereof and that afterwards and before the death of said Daniel H the United States did grant said premises to said Daniel H who died seized thereof as aforesaid, and the same descended to his heirs at law aforesaid unaffected by said deed Wherefore the plaintiffs pray that their title to the premises may be declared and that the same may be partition [illegible] between themselves and their co-heirs aforesaid.

The defendants except Kamm being in fact united in interest with the plaintiffs make no answer or defense to the bill

On February 1, 1870 the defendant Kamm demurred to the bill and assigned for cause of demurrer —

I That it appears from the bill that the plaintiffs have no right to a partition of the premises, and,

II That it appears that Kamm claims title to the premises adversely to the plaintiffs and that the title is in dispute and that of the plaintiffs at least doubtful

As against the defendant Kamm the plaintiffs do not seek partition but to have their title declared and quieted If this defendant has no interest in the property as alleged in the bill then he has no interest in the question of partition nor any right to object to a partition of the premises between the owners thereof On the other hand if the plaintiffs are barred by the deed of their ancestor from claiming any interest in this land as against Kamm or other person claiming under the deed of August 9, 1850 then they have nothing in the premises to partition.

So far as the title is concerned, it is true that Kamm claims adversely to the plaintiffs If it were not so this suit to quiet the title would not have been brought To ascertain whether this claim of Kamm's is well founded or not, and if the latter, to relieve the plaintiffs therefrom is one of the objects of this suit—and so far as Kamm is concerned is the only one Again there can be no question but that as between Kamm and the plaintiffs there is a dispute as to the title of the property but how that fact in any way militates against the plaintiffs right to maintain this suit against Kamm is not perceived On the contrary without such adverse claim and dispute between the parties there would be neither occasion or right to maintain a suit to quiet title These then are no sufficient causes of demurrer

Kamm's right to the premises rests upon the effect to be given to the deed of Daniel H Coffin and Chapman to Chapman of August 9 1850 The operative words in the granting clause of the deed are bargain sell and quit claim At common law no covenant was implied from the use of these words in any case (3 Caine's Rep 188 [illegible] or 475) Neither was any covenant implied from the use of these words by the statute regulating conveyances then in force in the Territory of Oregon (Laws [illegible] 1851 chap 54 p 204) [illegible] take to dispose of their [illegible] right title or interest in the premises and that it was only the bare possession [illegible] Squires [illegible] made use of the words — estate, claim property and demand whatsoever both at law and in equity as well in possession as in expectancy but these add nothing in legal effect to the phrase which precedes them right title and interest

On the argument [illegible] rant sought to give some special significance to the word expectancy as in limiting the sale or disposition by the deed of any interest in the premises which the grantors might then for any reason expect to acquire [illegible] But no such effect can be given to the word Although, where a deed contains proper covenants an after acquired estate in the property may pass to the grantee by operation of such covenants yet no estate in real property can be bargained sold or released before it is acquired by the grantor As to the time of their enjoyment estates in real property are [illegible] into estates in possession and expectancy Of expectancies there are [illegible] One created by the act of the parties [illegible] remainder the other by act of law called a reversion (2 Black [illegible]) But in these instances [illegible] the estate is already vested [illegible] to it, but limited to take [illegible] after another estate in the same premises determined [illegible] 163 141 [illegible] tation or belief [illegible] future [illegible] [illegible] father may reasonably expect [illegible] latter's property [illegible] not [illegible] well settled [illegible] such circumstances [illegible] inoperative 2 Wash R P [illegible]

The [illegible] claration [illegible] the legal effect of covenants [illegible] an effect a covenant against incumbrances caused or permitted [illegible]

[illegible] covenant against the [illegible]

[illegible] Court in [illegible]

[illegible] it [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] Daniel H [illegible] title [illegible] grant only [illegible] subsequent to the [illegible] (Hill [illegible] 374)

At the time Daniel H made the covenant [illegible] title [illegible] That the title was in the U S was well known to all the parties to the deed particularly the grantee Chapman Afterwards the U S saw proper to grant the premises to Daniel H and the claim right or title now set up to the premises by his heirs is that of the U S and not that covenanted against by the [illegible]

It follows from the second class [illegible] that the heirs of Daniel H are, as they claim the owners in fee simple of the premises and that the defendant Kamm has no interest therein or right thereto

The demurrer is overruled

Comments on the European War

[From the N Y Herald July 1]

France appears eager for the conflict She has seized upon what is generally regarded as a shallow pretext for pushing Prussia to the wall We may now credit the assertion that since the day of Prussia's great triumph at Sadowa Napoleon has been preparing to put a check upon her alarming expansion [illegible] the experiment he has thrown down the gauntlet and doubtless within five days from the declaration of war he could concentrate three hundred thousand of the best armed and most efficient soldiers of Europe upon the Prussian frontier Prussia will have the public sympathy even perhaps of Austria in the event of a war upon this Spanish crown question, but public sympathy will avail nothing unless it is expressed in bodies of armed men moving to the rescue France from all that we can learn is better prepared with all the latest improvements in inventions appliances and facilities for war than Prussia and can move upon a short notice to any point a larger and more effective army than the whole North German Confederation Napoleon doubtless in the event of war calculates upon another short and decisive campaign like that of Jena But would even a second victory of Jena be as decisive as the first? It would be more likely to mark only the beginning of the conflict [illegible] other parties into it, until eventually resulting [illegible] another Holy Alliance

In a war upon her eastern frontiers all the advantages will be with France but after entering the Prussian territories the necessity of guarding her railway lines in the rear will with every mile she advances weaken her forces in the front In the war of our late rebellion at times probably not less than half our Union soldiers in the field were employed in guarding our railway and steamboat lines of communication and not until General Grant had made these lines perfectly secure did he make any decisive impression upon the armies of Jeff Davis We know however, from the effects of the railway lines in the Italian war connecting with Montebello and from Joe Johnston's railway lines connecting with Bull Run that railways in a general European conflict will be apt to decide the issue of battles either for or against the advancing party according to the railway advantage held or lost

The late improvements in small arms and artillery will render henceforward the meeting of hostile armies more deadly than heretofore while railways will operate to bring greater armies face to face Thus in both these elements of concentration and destructiveness the European war that is to come will overshadow the bloodiest campaigns of the first Napoleon The war among the ironclads on the water will probably be in the same proportion terrifically destructive Inland fortresses will, as defensive positions be of less value than heretofore while our modern American system of strong defensive earthworks at every encampment will have to be adopted by the army on the offensive as well as the army on the defensive The earthworks of General Grant erected for the defense of his army while besieging Richmond and Petersburg were quite as formidable as those of the army besieged These lessons of modern war resulting from the destructiveness of modern weapons will soon be taught to both sides in the event of war between France and Prussia and so our American system of earthworks may spoil the calculations of Napoleon They may [illegible] the war which he expects to make a short one into a long one—so long as to change and enlarge beyond calculation all the original conditions of the contest

(From the N Y Times July 1)

The truth seems to be that Napoleon is quite resolved to ascertain whether France or Prussia is to play the part of dictator in Europe England has more and more withdrawn herself from all such [illegible] and her voice would consequently be little regarded If she will have perpetual peace she must pay the price of the blessing in reduced power and influence.

[From the Cincinnati Gazette]

Prussia is not as strong and united as she was before the recent war with Austria [illegible] over Saxony and some of the [illegible] tions are scarcely to be trusted while the independent States as Wurtemburg and Bavaria might at any moment be found acting against her If other European States [illegible] interfere Prussia and France will be well matched and the result of the war will be doubtful But it seems scarcely possible for two such powers as France and Prussia to engage in a war without drawing other powers into the struggle

Dr Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET NEAR COMMERCIAL San Francisco Established in 1854 for the treatment of [illegible] Seminal Diseases such as [illegible] [illegible] Weakness [illegible] years standing [illegible] successfully treated

Horrible Disease

How many thousands of persons both male and female are there who [illegible] a miserable existence [illegible] from virus [illegible] the pallid emaciated [illegible] broken down constitutions disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life In the short duration thousands [illegible] the scene Let parents guardians [illegible] suffering with any of these [illegible] the destroying malady—see that they are [illegible] to late Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon a physician who has made private disease his special study for years and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or [illegible] injurious drugs It is important to those who are afflicted and [illegible] those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors [illegible] publishing their skill [illegible] in a few days [illegible] upon the public by [illegible] names of eminent physicians from [illegible] and [illegible] Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry [illegible] you may fall into the hands of those charlatans

Seminal Weakness

Seminal Emissions the consequence of self abuse This solitary vice [illegible] depraved sexual indulgence is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms unless combatted by scientific medical measures [illegible] sallow countenance dark spots under the eyes pain in the head ringing in the ears noise like the rustling of leaves [illegible] unnatural uneasiness about the loins weakness of the limbs confused vision blunted intellect loss of confidence diffidence in approaching strangers [illegible] dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society loss of memory hectic flushes pimples and various eruptions about the face furred tongue [illegible] breath coughs consumption night sweats monomania and frequent insanity If relief be not obtained should apply immediately either in person or by letter and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay obtaining immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr Gibbon stating case symptoms length of time the disease has continued and have medicine promptly forwarded free from damage and curiosity to any part of the country with full and plain directions for use for Ten Dollars sent in registered letter or through Wells Fargo & Co

Caution to the Unfortunate

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who will [illegible] certificates dupe the unwary Some of these self styled doctors whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and [illegible] and became too lazy to work at their trades Some are tinsmiths shoemakers [illegible] keepers etc Look over the San Francisco Directory and you will not find the [illegible] [illegible] but you will find them [illegible] Look at the Directory for 18[illegible] The only way to avoid imposition is to make enquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for as advertising physicians in [illegible] are bogus there is no safety in trusting any of them unless you know who and what they are Dr Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus certificates [illegible] patient's letters etc Dr G [illegible] will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure
